

In collaboration with the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Initiatives (CLACI) at Miami Dade College and the Miami International Press Association (MIPA):

Is Cuba in Transition?

In November 2011, Cuba announced that it would allow citizens and permanent residents living on the island to buy and sell real estate for the first time in decades. This panel will assess the effects the measure will have on the lives of the Cuban population and whether these changes will in any way alter the current political regime.

Panelists:

- Carlos Saladrigas, Cuba Study Group
- Marifeli Perez-Stable, Professor of Sociology, Florida International University
- Ariel Armony, Director of UM's Center for Latin American Studies (CLAS)
- David Adams, Poder Magazine (US and Miami Editor)
- Carlos Barrezueta, Executive Director, Center for Latin American and Caribbean Initiatives at Miami Dade College

Tuesday, January 31, 2012

8:30 – 10:30 am

Room 6100

Miami Dade College, Wolfson Campus

300 N.E. Second Avenue, Miami

Complimentary parking is available at the Miami Dade College Wolfson Campus Parking Garage, 500 N.E. Second Avenue, through the N.E. Fifth Street entrance. Please let the parking attendant know you are attending the event.

For more information please contact Juan Castro Olivera at juan.castro@afp.com or Carlos Barrezueta at cbarrezu@mdc.edu