

The Center for Latin American Studies at the University of Miami and Florida International University's Latin American and Caribbean Center present
Distinguished Speaker Series:
Dr. Anthony Maingot

Exploring Haiti's Underdevelopment: Past Challenges and Future Prospects

(Above) 'Papa Doc' Duvalier and the murderous Tonton Macoutes militia

Wednesday,
February 24th
6:30 PM
School of Communication International Building, Room 4053

This event is FREE and open to the public.

For more information:
umclas@miami.edu
or 305-284-1854

- France's demand for reparations as the price of diplomatic recognition: Is it the main cause of historical underdevelopment?
- The U.S. occupation: Wilsonian good intentions versus Jim Crow Habits
- "Voodoo": A categorical obstacle to development?
- The Duvalier dictatorship: Who and what should Hatians blame?
- The durability of Man-land relations: Beyond immediate remedy?

Dr. Anthony Maingot is Professor Emeritus, National Security Scholar-in-Residence and recipient of the Distinguished Service Medallion at FIU. Born in Trinidad, educated in Trinidad, Costa Rica, Curaçao and Puerto Rico, he received his Ph.D. from the University of Florida. Founding Professor and Dean of International Affairs at FIU, Professor Maingot played a major role in shaping programs in Latin American and International Studies. His research on Haiti, has been supported by grants from the Carnegie, Ford, Rockefeller, and Mellon foundations and the Social Science Research Council. His most recent book is The United States and the Caribbean: Transforming Hegemony and Sovereignty (Routledge, 2004).