“ALTER(ED)NATIVES” WORKSHOP

with

Gina Athena Ulysse

Associate Professor of Anthropology and African American Studies, Wesleyan University, and Performance and Multi-Media Artist

Explore with Dr. Ulysse the border zone between ethnography and performance and why, as she puts it, we need “the visceral in the structural.”

This workshop is free and open to the public.

Organized by the Haiti Research Group Co-Sponsored by: Program in Women's and Gender Studies, Department of Anthropology, Africana Studies Program, and Latin American Studies Degree Programs

Parking: Purchase a day pass ($7) in the Pavia Garage [Turn off Ponce de Leon Blvd onto Stanford Drive (main entrance to the Coral Gables campus); take second left onto Geo. E. Merrick; take first left onto Pavia; garage is on the right. Walk back to 1210 Stanford Drive], or find metered parking on the street.
