Program

University of Miami Department of Political Science, College of Arts and Sciences in partnership with the University of Miami School of Law will offer a joint JD/MPA in Law and Public Administration. This curriculum will prepare our Law School students for government, political and nonprofit legal positions. The program provides a solid theoretical framework and grounding in policy analysis, administration, and management.

This joint program allows students to obtain both JD and MPA degrees in four years. The first year is spent in the Law School and years two through four are spent taking both Law and MPA courses.

On the MPA side, students must complete 30 credits in the Political Science Department including a 3-credit internship, and 18 credits will be double-counted from the JD coursework to complete the total of 48 credits. On the JD side, students must complete 82 credits in the Law School and 6 credits will be double-counted from the MPA courses to complete the total of 88 JD credits. Students will be required to complete a total of 112 credits for both degrees.

Admissions

To be admitted to this program, students must apply separately to both programs. Students may apply to the MPA program prior to beginning Law School or anytime during the first or second year of Law School. Students may begin the MPA program in the fall, spring or summer semesters.

For admission to the MPA program students must complete an MPA application. If they apply before the end of their first year in Law School, they will not need to take the GRE exam. Their LSAT score will be used instead of the GRE.

Acceptance by one program does not in any way indicate or guarantee acceptance by the other degree program.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition for JD courses will be paid to the Law School. Tuition for the MPA courses will be paid to the College of Arts and Sciences. Law School scholarships may only be used towards tuition for Law School courses.
