For over three decades, Susan Haack has applied herself to philosophical analysis and to developing her views on critical social matters such as affirmative action and hiring practices, on feminism, on how science should be conducted, and on the use of scientific evidence in court.

In this friendly yet critical look at Haack's philosophical positions, fifteen essayists from around the world invite the philosopher to reflect, clarify, and expand her ideas. Responding to fellow thinkers Yakov Ben-Haim, James Gouinlock, Paul Gross, Henry Kyburg Jr., Nils Roll-Hansen, Paul Thagard, Vern Walker, and others, Haack addresses such issues as the revisability of logic, the role of emotion in reasoning, scientific integrity, and the relation of science to religion.

This wide-ranging volume of essays examines Susan Haack's entire career, and through critical analyses explores both the roots and the prospects of her key ideas—Peirce-inspired Critical Common-sensism and fallibilism, Innocent Realism, and Incoherentism with its famous crossword analogy. Expanding on her previous work, Haack and her critics examine the use of science, the role of the philosopher in today's world, her disagreements with Richard Rorty, and her controversial thoughts on postmodernism. This unique collection of valuable insights captures the evolving thought of one of today's most influential minds.

"This book on Susan Haack's philosophy is a welcome achievement in a grand tradition, as in the series of volumes of the Library of Living Philosophers. Here, too, the multifaceted contributions by a distinguished philosopher are analyzed in turn by nearly a score of feisty scholars, each of whom then is answered by Susan Haack's illuminating reply. Altogether, a feast."

of Scientific Thought: Kepler to Einstein* and Science and Anti-Science

"As is well known, Susan Haack combines the fullest technical professionalism in philosophy with a commitment to vigorous participation in debate on large public issues. Her special gift is her ability to bring the former to bear on the latter. This well-conceived collection brings out the force and energy of her thinking."
