Course Description and Objectives

In a democracy the actions of the government are based on the wishes of the citizenry. Citizens participate in the governing process by pressuring the government to respond. In this course we will examine these various means of “civic participation”. The course focuses on the United States, but we will devote some time to discuss civic participation in other countries as well.

Requirements

Participation: 10%
Attendance, completion of reading and writing assignments, and active participation in class discussion are required (this is not a lecture course). I may give quizzes to assess your progress.

Weekly Quizzes: 40% (5% per quiz)
Instead of having a traditional midterm or final exam, I will assess your progress each week with a brief quiz. We have 8 substantive meetings; each quiz will count for 5% of your final grade. Discussion questions for each week of class are posted on Blackboard. This will point you to the important aspects of the material that we will cover in the quizzes and in class discussion.

Term Paper Prospectus: 5% (due via email by 5:00pm on Wednesday, March 6)
A brief one page, double spaced, summary of your paper topic. Refer to the paper assignment handout for more information.

Term Paper Presentation: 5% (Wednesday, November 28, in class)
Each student will be required to give a brief presentation to the class on their paper. PowerPoint is available, but optional. If you intend to use Keynote please bring your own Mac.

Term Paper: 40% (due via email by 5:00pm Wednesday, May 1)
The 15 page term paper qualifies this course for writing credit (the “W” requirement). Late papers will not be accepted without prior consent, and only in extreme circumstances. Those accepted will receive a one third grade penalty for each day they are late (e.g. a B+ becomes a B).
Academic Misconduct

Plagiarism or cheating of any kind will not be tolerated. By submitting materials to meet course requirements you assert that the work is your own. “Minor” infractions, such as failure to adequately cite source materials will lead to an F on the given assignment. Outright copying of materials or cheating in any other form will lead to an F in the course and referral to the Honor Council. If you have any questions about what constitutes academic misconduct, please consult me or refer to the Student Rights and Responsibilities Handbook.

Class Cancellation

In the event a class is canceled (due to natural disaster, instructor illness, etc.) you are still responsible for having done the work assigned on this syllabus by its due date.

Electronic Devices in the Classroom

Upon entering the classroom, your cell phone needs to be silenced (i.e., not on vibrate), and placed out of view in your bag or in your pocket, not on the desk/table. Students using their phones during class will be asked to leave. Laptops may only be used for note taking. If a student is seen using a laptop for any other purpose, they will be asked to leave.

Required Texts

Additional readings will be provided on Blackboard.
